

About the Journal

WORK: A Journal of Prevention, Assessment & Rehabilitation (impact factor: 1.803) is an interdisciplinary, international journal, which publishes high quality peer-reviewed manuscripts covering the entire scope of the occupation of work. Work is broadly defined as occupation and includes employment, education, and volunteerism.

The journal's subtitle has been deliberately laid out: The first goal is the prevention of illness, injury, and disability. When this goal is not achievable, the attention focuses on assessment to design client-centered intervention, rehabilitation, treatment, or controls that use scientific evidence to support best practice.

Call for Papers

Special Issue on Complimentary Medicine for Work, Function and Health

You are invited to submit a manuscript for consideration in a special issue titled, Complimentary Medicine for Work, Function and Health. For this issue, the editor will consider manuscripts across a broad area of therapies that fall beyond the scope of conventional medicine, but are used alongside it in the treatment of disease and ill health (e.g. biofeedback, meditation, yoga). Topics include but are not limited to:

- Efficacy and effectiveness studies
- Systematic reviews
- Case studies
- Outcomes for specific classes of injury or illness
- Models to enhance outcomes
